Peter Gabriel & Lord Jamar to Re-Mix “X Games Without Frontiers” Exclusively for Winter X Games 13 and X Games 15 1980 Hit Single Re-Recorded to be Theme Song for Winter X Games 13 and X Games 15 Telecast; Sony Music Entertainment to be Exclusive Music Provider for All Other Music at the Event

ESPN will debut “X Games Without Frontiers,” a new, re-recorded song based on the original 1980s hit single “Games Without Frontiers” by renowned artist Peter Gabriel. Adding a hip hop component, Gabriel worked with Winter X Games announcer and Brand Nubian rapper Lord Jamar to re-record the track. It will serve as the theme song in the Winter X Games 13 telecasts currently airing through Sunday, as well as this summer’s X Games 15 telecasts. It will also be heard onsite at both events.

Gabriel will preserve the original rock ‘n roll sound while Lord Jamar will modify the original lyrics to reflect the Winter X Games and rap updates unique to each day of the event.

In addition, Sony Music Entertainment (RCA/JIVE Label Group and Columbia/Epic Label Group) has reached an agreement with ESPN to be the exclusive music provider for ESPN's Winter X Games 13, airing from January 22 through January 25 on ESPN and ABC. The featured artists are: Alkaline Trio (Epic Records), Audrye Sessions (Black Seal), Franz Ferdinand (Epic Records), Gavin DeGraw (J Records) and T-Pain (Jive Records). Each artist will have multiple songs included within the X Games, ranging across genres, creating a diverse soundtrack for the Winter X Games 13.
